burt offers an account of how an invasion might have unfolded and its consequences by drawing on parallel events at other times and places definitely worth a read the nymas review when writing his memoirs after world war ii german general feldmarschall albert kesselring stated italy s missing her chance to occupy the island of malta at the start of hostilities will go down in history as a fundamental blunder it s easy to see why this tiny 95 square mile island held such a prominent place in the war's mediterranean theater located almost halfway between the british bases of gibraltar and alexandria egypt and just 60 miles south of sicily her airfields and naval base stood directly in the path of italy's and her german partner's line of communication from europe to north africa operation c3 is a detailed study of the axis 1942 plan to invade and take the island of malta the book examines the future combatants up to the axis capture of tobruk in june 1942 the book then provides a realistic assessment of what would have had to happen if the axis had decided to launch the invasion operation c3 then provides a day by day battle narrative of the invasion as if it had occurred on saturday august 15 1942 the battle narrative is based on the combatant's actual plans from the italian and maltese archives and the realistic appraisal of what could have happened when those plans collide a reality analysis section is added after the battle narrative to discuss what really happened after tobruk fell and why operation c3 was never attempted this is the first book to treat bombing during wwii as a european phenomenon and not just the blitz on britain and germany with western europe now at the heart of a united continent it is even more difficult to explain how only 70 years ago european states destroyed much of the urban landscape from the air there were many blitzes between 1940 and 1945 with an estimated 700 000 people killed the purpose of this book is to provide the basis for a comparison of the experience of western states under the impact of bombing in particular it considers the political cultural and social responses to bombing rather than the military strategic and social dimensions which have formed the core of the discussion hitherto this book will correct the popular perception of the british blitz as the key bombing experience by exposing the reality of life under the bombs for communities as far apart as brest palermo and rostock an international panel of historians consider the issues raised amidst the bombing of human rights and protection of civilians in this seminal event in 20th history the macchi c 202 was probably the most successful italian fighter during the second world war it is generally agreed that the performance of the macchi was superior to both the hawker hurricane and the curtiss p 40 kittyhawk and on a par with the supermarine spitfire mk v it is not by chance that virtually all the italian top scoring aces flew this plane either with the regia aeronautica or the aeronautica nazionale repubblicana at the same time the mc 202 is the symbol of the dysfunctions in the italian military industrial complex the lack of sound industrial planning resulting in orders from the regia aeronautica for an exaggerated number of different aircraft the lack of the development of adequate engines limiting aircraft performance and reducing capacity to house weapons with a proper punch the corruption of politics and the culpable connivance of the high military spheres the mc 202 was therefore produced in limited numbers while there is consensus that air war especially in the african theatre would have been different had the aircraft been adopted before bringing together an expert group of established and emerging scholars this book analyses the pervasive myth of the new man in various fascist movements and far right regimes between 1919 and 1945 through a series of ground breaking case studies focusing on countries in europe but with additional chapters on argentina brazil and japan the new man in radical right ideology and practice 1919 45 argues that what many national forms of far right politics understood at the time as a so called anthropological revolution is essential to understanding this ideology s bio political often revolutionary dynamics it explores how these movements promoted the creation of a new ideal human what this ideal looked like and what this things tell us about fascism s emergence in the 20th century the years after world war one saw the rise of regimes and movements professing totalitarian aims in the case of revolutionary radical right movements these totalising goals extended to changing the very nature of humanity through modern science propaganda and conquest at its most extreme one of the key aims of fascism the most extreme manifestation of radical right politics between the wars was to create a new man naturally this manifested itself in different ways in varying national contexts and this volume explores these manifestations in order to better comprehend early 20th century fascism both within national boundaries and in a broader transnational context
