Every morning, hundreds of thousands of adults handle the most demanding audience anyone could ever hope to know: a roomful of students. In what many would argue is the most important job in our society, teachers have the power to shape lives and in turn shape the world where we live. As the famous thinkers in this fascinating collection will attest, author Randy Howe gathered quotations from poets, writers, politicians, scholars, and many others. Teachers all help put into words the many unspoken thoughts and emotions that his profession evokes. A good teacher is a passionate teacher, writes Howe, and teaching is an art form with reflections from everyone from Aesop to Martin Luther King Jr. and Margaret Mead to Barbara Kingsolver. These inspirational and informative words of wisdom discuss everything from the importance of teaching and learning to the need to think outside the box, to dealing with discipline and classroom management. By turns thought-provoking and laughter-invoking, this collection should be on the bookshelf of every teacher, young and old alike.

Fisher and Frey's answer to close and critical reading, no doubt since the cave paintings of prehistoric times, humans have asked questions to make sense of the message. So what could possibly be new about posing questions about text? Plenty, and with TDQ, Doug Fisher and Nancy Frey reveal it all. After one quick read, you will have learned all the very best ways to use text-dependent questions as scaffolds during close reading and the big understandings they can yield, especially when executed the Fisher and Frey way. But that's just for starters. Fisher and Frey also include illustrative video, actual texts and questions, examples from across content areas, and an online professional learning guide. Making the two volumes of TDQ a potent professional development tool across all of K-12, the genius of TDQ is the way Fisher and Frey break down the process into four cognitive pathways that help teachers organize the journey through a text and frame an extended discussion around it. Step by step, this approach ensures that in every close reading lesson, students are guided to consider explicit and implied meanings and deeply analyze and appreciate various aspects of a text, especially those that may be challenging or confusing. Here's how the four interrelated processes play out: Every Why and Every How answered: What does the text say? (general understandings and key details), How does the text work? (vocabulary, structure, and author's craft), What does the text mean? (logical inferences and intertextual connections), What does the text inspire you to do? (write, investigate, present, debate). The cool thing: these questions ignite students' engagement and discussion because they strategically lead students to a place of understanding where explicit and implied meanings and interpretations can be debated far from being overly literal or teacher led the questioning framework fisher and frey advance enhances the quality of student talk and idea generation all in all there s no better resource to cultivate students capacity for independent reading and incisive thinking longtime collaborators and recipients of numerous teaching and leadership awards douglas fisher and nancy frey are professors of educational leadership at san diego state university as well as teacher leaders at health sciences high middle college
