1967 it is the oldest continuing lgbt publication in the united states

this book studies the transnational nature of american cultural production specifically literature film and music examining how these serve as ways of perceiving the united states and american culture the volume s engagement with the reality of transnationalism focuses on material examples that allow for an exploration of concrete manifestations of this phenomenon and trace its development within and outside the united states contributors consider the ways in which artifacts or manifestations of american culture have traveled and what has happened to the texts in the process inviting readers to examine the nature of the transnational turn by highlighting the cultural products that represent and produce it emphasis on literature film and music allows for nuanced perspectives on the way a global phenomenon is enacted in american texts within the u s also illustrating the commodification of american culture as these texts travel the volume therefore serves as a coherent examination of the critical and creative repercussions of transnationalism and by juxtaposing a discussion of creativity with critical paradigms unveils how transnationalism has become one of the constitutive modes of cultural production in the 21st century

this book examines the role that the film and publishing industries play in promoting narratives that preserve and consolidate power among society s elite haunted by the spectre of the beats and the boomers the hippies and the punks today s twentysomethings are desperate for anything that gives them a generational self image this waggishly ironic book takes a riotous jab at the generation x twentysomething phenomenon and examines various aspects of their pop culture including music literature and politics

how has american literature after postmodernism responded to the digital age drawing on insights from contemporary media theory this is the first book to explore the explosion of new media technologies as an animating context for contemporary american literature casey michael henry examines the intertwining histories of new media forms since the 1970s and literary postmodernism and its aftermath from william gaddis s j r and bret easton ellis s american psycho through to david foster wallace s infinite jest through these histories the book charts the ways in which print based postmodern writing at first resisted new mass media forms and ultimately came to respond to them

L'auteur de moins que zéro décrit dans son deuxième livre une nouvelle descente aux enfers qui se situe à l'université ses héros des étudiants issus d'une bourgeoisie typée trempent d'une dérive à l'autre dans les illusions du sexe et de la drogue sur un fond de rock. Bret Easton Ellis peint une génération en négatif en montrant les impasses des désirs, des urgences existentielles et des manques tout cela au moyen d'une écriture sobre, rapide et brute. La phraséologie de cette décennie contient à elle seule toute une micro-histoire. Une langue Patrick Amine. Art Press.

Spy Notes is deadpan parody a cliff's notes for the ultra hip pop novels that have served to define the fiction of the eighties. Summarizes drug, sex, and postadolescent angst filled plots in the flat, junior college arch academic tone characteristic of cliff's and monarch notes. Doubleday.

The issues of violence and its control, containment, or overcoming range prominently in the social sciences. Empirical sociology seeks to derive generalizable explanations from its research into concrete cases of the occurrence or absence of violent conflict, aspiring to transform such explanations into instructions for strategic action within cultural studies. Discursive and epistemic formations are assumed to be fundamentally and endemically violent. In these perspectives, the quotidian violence that ineluctably inheres in modern discourses manifests itself as e.g. normalisation, privilege, and exclusion, thus sharing a wide range of common objects and objectives with the social sciences. The essays collected in this volume address contemporary conjunctures and discourses of violence in world society from different disciplines ranging from cultural studies, social science, political science, and philosophy to history, literary criticism, and psychology.
