William Henry Giles Kingston James Cook

James Cook the circumnavigator was a native of the district of Cleveland Yorkshire but of his ancestry there is now very little satisfactory information to be obtained. Nichols in his topographer and genealogist suggests that James Cooke the celebrated mariner was probably of common origin with the Stockton Cookes his reason for the suggestion being that a branch of the family possessed a crayon portrait of some relation which was supposed to resemble the great discoverer he makes no explanation of the difference in spelling of the two names and admits that the sailor's family was said to come from Scotland. Dr George Young certainly the most reliable authority on Cook's early years who published a life in 1836 went to Whitby as vicar about 1805 and claims to have obtained much information about his subject through intercourse with his relatives friends and acquaintances including one or two surviving school companions and appears to be satisfied that Cook was of Scotch extraction. Dr George Johnston a very careful writer states in his natural history of the eastern borders that in 1692 the father of James Thomson the author of the Seasons was minister of Ednam Roxburghshire and a man named John Cook was one of the elders of the kirk this John Cook married on the 19th January 1693 a woman named Jean Duncan by whom he had a son James baptised 4th March 1694 and this child Johnston positively asserts was afterwards the father of the future Captain Cook the dates of the marriage and baptism have been verified by the Reverend John Burleigh minister of Ednam and they agree with the probable date of the birth of Cook's father for he died in 1778 at the age of eighty five owing to the loss of the church records for some years after 1698 Mr Burleigh is unable to trace when this James Cook left Ednam to better himself but he would take with him a testificate of church membership which might possibly but not probably still exist attracted perhaps by the number of Scotch people who flocked into the north of Yorkshire to follow the alum trade then at its height James Cook settled down and married and the first positive information to be obtained is that he and his wife Grace her maiden name has so far escaped identification though she is known to have been a native of Cleveland resided for some time at Morton in the parish of Ormsby and here their eldest child John was born in January 1727 Dr Young says that James Cook had a superstition that his mother's farewell was prophetic of his marriage for her words were God send you Grace

In a style that is more detective story than conventional biography Williams explores the multiple narratives of Cook's death in short Williams examines the story of Cook's progress from obscurity to fame and eventually to infamy a story that until now has never been fully told

Cook's three voyages of discovery which took place between 1768 and 1779 are among the most remarkable achievements in the history of exploration. Cook charted vast areas of the globe with astonishing accuracy and the voyages also made a significant contribution towards solving some of the great problems of cartography and navigation with crews containing gifted sailors and navigators as well as botanists, painters and scientists. Cook provides the link between the speculative profit-hungry voyages of the Elizabethan seafarers and the scientific expeditions of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Captain James Cook was the greatest explorer of his age, perhaps of any age. He was a leader of men, a master voyager who journeyed to unknown places, a seeker of knowledge who commanded three demanding scientific expeditions. He and his crews had encounters with peoples of the South Seas which could lead to mutual respect and trade but also to misunderstanding and violence. Even before he died, his exploits were widely admired but his death at the hands of Hawaiians turned him into a legendary figure, a hero of the Enlightenment who was said to have brought civilization to the Pacific while giving up his own life in the process. Yet despite everything that is known about Cook's life and many adventures, the man himself remains shrouded in mystery. With this book, Dan O'Sullivan seeks to put this right and casts vivid light on Cook's character, teasing out his personality from the pages of his own journals, as well as an original and illuminating re-examination of Cook's complex character. This is also a vivid introduction to his life and times which is essential reading for anyone with an interest in this incomparable sea captain.

Captain James Cook (1728-1779) was born in Yorkshire, England, and died in Hawaii, 1779. He was an English explorer, navigator, and cartographer, rising to the rank of captain in the Royal Navy. Cook was the first to map Newfoundland prior to making three voyages to the Pacific Ocean during which he achieved the first European contact with the eastern coastline of Australia and the Hawaiian Islands, as well as the first recorded circumnavigation of New Zealand. The book includes 6 illustrations.

Cook led three famous expeditions to the Pacific Ocean between 1768 and 1779. In voyages that ranged from the Antarctic Circle to the Arctic Sea, Cook charted Australia and the whole coast of New Zealand and brought back detailed descriptions of the natural history of the Pacific. Accounts based on Cook's journals were issued at the time but it was not until this century that the original journals were published in Beaglehole's definitive edition. The journals tell the story of these voyages as Cook wanted it to be told, radiating the ambition, courage, and skill which enabled him to carry out an unrivalled series of expeditions in dangerous waters.
