in 2014 a 28 year old british doctor found himself co running the ebola isolation unit in sierra leone s main hospital after the doctor in charge had been killed by the virus completely overwhelmed and wrapped in stifling protective suits he and his team took it in turns to provide care to patients while removing dead bodies from the ward against all odds he battled to keep the hospital open as the queue of sick and dying patients grew every day only a few miles down the road the irish ambassador and head of irish aid worked relentlessly to rapidly scale up the international response at a time when entire districts had been quarantined she travelled around the country and met with un agencies the president and senior ministers so as to be better placed in alerting the world to the catastrophe unfolding in front of her in this blow by blow account walsh and johnson expose the often shocking shortcomings of the humanitarian response to the outbreak both locally and internationally and call our attention to the immense courage of those who put their lives on the line every day to contain the disease theirs is the definitive account of the fight against an epidemic that shook the world during the 2017 celebration of the day of the african child i was invited at the end of the event to share my story to a group of children i was asked by my friends to begin with my story but i am rather a private man and most importantly i believe there are more important stories to begin with these are the stories of those who can t write who can t speak up for themselves who are left at the mercy of society but also the stories of the brave the courageous the dreamers and most importantly the decisive actors the action takers the positive change makers and the doers as important as the story of each person is the stories of those disenfranchised matter the most to me there are more interesting stories to begin this conversation with than mine volume one of redefining the citizen of the new millennium explores the gritty details of growing up into an environment where almost every odd is against us and how in the midst of chaos one could rise above expectations

how do you come up with the idea to list all the birds in the world including the subspecies and to give all birds english names there is a reason for it my favorite saying whose author is unknown everyone said that s not possible then there was one who did not know that and just did it i am an animal photographer and probably a little bit crazy ive built a complete animal database for mammals and birds over the last decade this facilitates my work in determining and archiving images and assigning keywords especially among the many subspecies with this book i would like to give all birding friends and ornithologists a complete overview in english for this i have given unique english names to all subspecies the naming should not meet any scientific requirements the names are based on translations from the latin name geographical distribution areas and the names of the discoverers the entries consist of the scientific name the english name the distribution areas and the author i wish you a lot of fun with this book but especially while watching the fascinating birdlife fotolulu
