written with young audiences in mind the volume buccaneers and pirates of our coasts is a rip roaring tour through the history of the seagoing scallywags and outlaws who trolled the waters around what is now the united states though filled with interesting facts and historical nuggets the narrative is engaging enough to ensnare the attention of the smallest sprogs this book examines the imperial spectacles and startling reversals of fortune related in william h prescott s history of the conquest of mexico 1843 and history of the conquest of peru 1847 and investigates how these accounts inspired fictional adaptations by george a henty h rider haggard and george griffith the revision of history in the amerindian adventure both entertained young transatlantic audiences and was a vehicle to attract tourism and investment in countries such as mexico and peru henty haggard and griffith moreover used their tales of adventure as a platform to impart british values to their readers such values compel the characters and narrators of the novels discussed to act as cultural mediators to acquire indigenous languages and adopt native ways of being and in several of the romance adventures under consideration to marry mexican or incan noblewomen part i conquest examines george henty s by right of conquest or with cortez in mexico 1891 h rider haggard s montezuma s daughter 1893 and george griffith s virgin of the sun a tale of the conquest of peru 1898 part ii reclamation argues that english re writings of history work to eclipse the spanish in haggard s virgin the sun 1922 henty s treasure of the incas 1902 and griffith s romance of golden star 1897

one of the most comprehensive accurate accounts of buccaneering by an experienced sailor describes the activities of sea rovers as renowned for their navigational skills as they were for ravaging ships and terrorizing caribbean settlements story of american beauties questing for british titles and the dukes lords and marquesses of england questing for american dollars in late nineteenth century new york excerpt from in the wake of the buccaneers there is no more entrancing body of water in either the western or the eastern hemisphere than the caribbean sea with a fringe of lovely tropical islands on the one side and on the other the spanish main and its picturesque centuries old towns and fascinating sights aside from its beauty its delightful climate and its ever shifting scenes the caribbean and its shores are redolent of romance it was the starting point of those brave though ruthless adventurers who carved a new world for castile and leon for centuries it was the treasure house of the world and the battle ground of the mightiest european powers across this sapphire sea sailed the caravels of columbus the golden hind of drake and the stately plate laden galleons of spain and across this same sea coursed those fierce sea rovers the buccaneers of all the dare devil spirits who sailed the caribbean and ravaged the spanish main the buccaneers were the most picturesque and romantic about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works this historic book may have numerous typos and missing text purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher not indexed not illustrated 1853 edition excerpt on the 13th at seven in the morning we discovered the main land of america and were becalmed next day which continued to the 15th at noon when we had a fresh gale and steered n n e till the 17th when about moon setting we descried two ships and four boats to windward of us about a cannon s shot distance that had the cape of us which brought us upon deck to make all ready one of those boats on the 18th by break of day being a tartane commanded by captain john rose as not knowing us presently came up and hailed us and as our captain had a commission from the lord high admiral of france the count of tholouse we made answer from paris and put out our flag but rose who would not know us so believing we had no other intention in feigning ourselves to be a king s ship than to get clear of him gave us two guns to make us strike insomuch that taking him really for a spaniard we knocked out the heads of two barrels of powder in order to burn ourselves and blow up the ship rather than fall into the hands of those people who never gave us quarter but were wont to make us suffer all imaginable torments they beginning usually with the captain whom they hang with his commission about his neck but one of the two ships came up with us in a moment and knowing what we were gave us a signal which was so much the more satisfaction to us that instead of enemies which we took them to be they proved to be not only friends but those very ships we were in quest of which obliged us to put in at the cape and spend that day to visit one another one of these two ships belonged to captain michael landresson and was called the mutinous but formerly the peace and the other to captain lawrence de graff whose name the buccaneers of america a true account of the most remarkable assaults is an unchanged high quality reprint of the original edition of 1893 hansebooks is editor of the literature on different topic areas such as research and science travel and expeditions cooking and nutrition medicine and other genres as a publisher we focus on the preservation of historical literature many works of historical writers and scientists are available today as antiques only hansebooks newly publishes these books and contributes to the preservation of literature which has become rare and historical knowledge for the future
