the black community of atlanta a city once heralded as the black mecca of the south is currently under threat of dislocation by cultural gentrification amid the city s urban renaissance residents face rising property values taxes and rents as well as the more insidious loss of a collective identity and belonging in ghosts of atlanta cultural gentrification of the black mecca author rhana gittens wheeler examines the fading echoes of african american memory and historical narratives in atlanta as encroaching investors and business owners enter historically black areas many have sought to rebrand entire neighborhoods making those spaces more palatable to would be gentrifiers and less recognizable to former residents exploring material sites of meaning including monuments museums art exhibitions and more gittens wheeler unearths tensions between the city s proud legacy as a hub of political and economic equality for black americans and the unsettling reality of cultural displacement gittens wheeler interrogates and critiques recent developments in the city including the atlanta beltline craft breweries and attractions that romanticize the civil rights movement drawing inspiration from literary giants like ralph ellison and toni morrison as well as contemporary voices like 2 chainz and t i gittens wheeler weaves together elements of rhetorical criticism archival studies and interviews to confront pressing questions what happens when symbols of cultural memory and identity are uprooted how do residents grapple with the erasure of their narratives forced to feel unwelcome in their own neighborhoods in addressing these questions gittens wheeler uncovers the complex dynamics of shared spaces exposing both the pain of displacement and the possibility of redemption a reverberating call to action ghosts of atlanta cultural gentrification of the black mecca demonstrates that black stories inscribed in space are necessary for bringing a moral reckoning to the heart of america s national identity this peer reviewed book provides detailed insights into how space and its applications are and can be used to support the development of the full range and diversity of african societies as encapsulated in the african union s agenda 2063 following on from part 1 which was highly acclaimed by the space community it focuses on the role of space in supporting the un sustainable development goals in africa but covers an even more extensive array of relevant and timely topics addressing all facets of african development it demonstrates that while there have been significant achievements in recent years in terms of economic and social development which have lifted many of africa s people out of poverty there is still a great deal that needs to be done to fulfill the basic needs of africa s citizens and afford them the dignity they deserve to this end space is already being employed in diverse fields of human endeavor to serve africa s goals for its future but there is much room for further incorporation of space systems and data providing a comprehensive overview of the role space is playing in helping africa achieve its developmental aspirations the book will appeal to both students and professionals in fields such as space studies international relations governance and social and rural development this book explores the challenges of conflict resolution in protracted conflicts and conceptualises and analyses the practice of engagement without recognition in de facto states increasingly engagement without recognition is seen as a promising approach to conflict resolution in de facto states but little is known about its implementation and results this book addresses that lacuna and develops an analytical model to assess international engagement focusing on implementation on the ground this model enables a comprehensive analysis of international engagement s scope areas and methods further the book also explores the context of engagement in de facto states which has a significant impact on its implementation and results in this way the book also advances our understanding of the opportunities obstacles and limitations of engagement without recognition the analysis is based on the current eu engagement in abkhazia and draws from other cases in the caucasus eastern europe and beyond and finds that international engagement with de facto states is more comprehensive and multifaceted than previously known however it also faces some distinct challenges and produces modest results finally the book provides practical recommendations on how to better utilise the peacebuilding potential of engagement without recognition this book will be of much interest to students of conflict resolution statehood peace and conflict studies and international relations analyzes security challenges facing georgia since a more democratic government took over in 2003 including secessionist crises within its borders and regional instability in the caucasus since the collapse of the soviet union conflict in the former ussr has been a key concern in international security this book fills a gap in the literature on violent conflict evaluating a region that contains all the modern ingredients for instability and aggression bringing together leading experts on war and security the book addresses current debates in international relations about power interests globalisation and the politics of identity as major drivers of contemporary war incidents such as the 2008 russo georgian conflict the wars in chechnya and russia s struggles over national identity and resources with former communist states are all thoroughly examined with new issues like energy security terrorism and transnational crime and older tensions between east and west threatening to deepen once more this is an important contribution to the international security literature society is now facing challenges for which the traditional management toolbox is increasingly inadequate well grounded theoretical frameworks such as systems thinking and cybernetics offer general level interpretation schemes and models that are capable of supporting understanding of complex phenomena and are not impacted by the passage of time this book serves the knowledge society to address the complexity of decision making and problem solving in the 21st century with contributions from systems and cybernetics a multi disciplinary approach has been adopted to support diversity and to develop inter and trans disciplinary knowledge within the shared thematic of problem solving and decision making in the 21st century its conceptual thread is cyber systemic thinking and its realisation is supported by a wide network of scientists on the basis of a highly participative agenda the book provides a platform of knowledge sharing and conceptual frameworks developed with multi disciplinary perspectives which are useful to better understand the fast changing scenario and the complexity of problem solving in the present time
